Fairbank, Maslin, Maullin, Metz & Associates - FM3
Public Opinion Research & Strategy
Methodology

• Telephone survey of 602 randomly-selected City of Fremont residents.
  – Interviews were conducted October 10-20, 2013 via landlines and cell phones.
  – Interviews were conducted in English, Spanish, Mandarin, Pashto, and Dari.
• The margin of sampling error is +/-4.0% at the 95% confidence level
  – Margins of error for population subgroups will be higher.
  – Some percentages do not sum to 100% due to rounding.
• Select comparisons to prior 2012 and 2006 surveys.
Key Findings

• In general, residents – especially Indian/Pakistani residents – are more optimistic about life in Fremont than they were in 2012.
• Fewer are concerned about the City’s budget and the local economy, and satisfaction with many City services has slightly increased.
• Strong majorities continue to see Fremont’s diversity as an asset, feel safe in the City, and view it as a great place for families and seniors.
• However, majorities still see housing costs (56%) and freeway traffic (56%) as “extremely” or “very” serious problems in Fremont.
• Public safety – particularly police protection – are again top priorities.
• Most feel positive about the rate and kind of development in Fremont, though many would like to see more entertainment options and nightlife.
• Majorities of voters would conceptually support a one-half cent sales tax or a 4% Utility User Tax, though fewer feel that additional revenue is needed to provide City services at desired levels.

- Survey respondents were asked about a conceptual finance measure.
- Half were asked about a one-half cent sales tax and half about a 4% Utility Users Tax (UUT).

Next, suppose there were a measure on the City of Fremont ballot to maintain and protect the level of essential services – including police, fire, street and park maintenance, and youth and senior services – currently provided by the City, and to restore a number of services that have recently been cut by (enacting a one-half cent sales tax)/(establishing a four percent utility users tax.)

If there were an election today, do you think you would vote “yes” in favor of this measure or “no” to oppose it?

However, less than half of voters believe the City cannot provide services adequately without further funding.

The City of Fremont cannot provide the level of service that residents want and need without additional funding.

I would never vote for a tax increase no matter what the money raised would be used for.

At the same time, voters have much more faith the City will manage tax dollars wisely.

The City of Fremont can be trusted to properly manage additional tax dollars.

Conclusions
Conclusions

• There appear to be few areas where residents feel the City needs major course corrections – they generally feel that things are going well and improving.

• However, residents do see housing costs and freeway traffic as notable problems, and to a much lesser extent street maintenance and the lack of nightlife/entertainment.

• These positive feelings about the local economy and City government contribute to a somewhat diminished perception that the City is in need of additional revenue to adequately provide services.

• Consequently, while voters express conceptual support for a finance measure, they may not feel a strong sense of urgency to increase local taxes.
